

#SilentContest

LOUDSPEAKERS - Ladies and gentlemen, please welcome the spokesman for Brick-à-Brack: Bob!

Bob's comes in.

BOB - Good morning, everyone! Hello Greg, and thank you for having me on today. The reason that I'm here today, is to talk about the newest Brick-à- Brack contest. After the success of the 8x8x8, an iconic contest from our dear website, we wanted to create a brand new type of contest. One that would test animators much like the 8x8x8. Thus was born... "The Voiceless Contest!"

The audience cheers!

RANDOM MAN (yelling) - Uh... what is it?

BOB - "What the heck is that?" you may be asking yourself. Well it's quite simple, my good sir! The goal is to make a brickfilm that includes NO dialogue! I don't want ANY NOISE! Okay, well, you can make your characters laugh or cry, but no words should come out of their mouth, PERIOD! In addition to that, you cannot use subtitles, headings, or any other text aides that you might see at the beginning, end, or for the duration of a film (like in Star Wars or those old silent films with text cards). I know that it will not be an easy task, but as some motivation, just know that the first 5 will be rewarded crunchy prizes, offered by our wonderful partners! You have until the evening of June 17, 2018 to plan, create, and publish your entry. After this date, a select jury will judge each participating brickfilm. The results will then be available one to two weeks after the end of the competition. With that, I'll leave you to your business! Good luck to all participants and may the best brickfilm win!

End credits.

Post-generic scene: Bob is in his limo.

BOB - Ha ha ha, that's quite funny, my dear. Oh, I almost forgot to mention, you don't have to make a black and white movie! But it's still a good idea if you want to have class with a capital "C!" Ha ha ha! I'm kidding... Do whatever you want. Alright Winston, start the car, and let's roll!

Bob's leaves...